in the johannesburg township of soweto a young black gangster in south africa who leads a group of violent criminals slowly discovers the meaning of compassion dignity and his own humanity the contributions to this volume probe the complex relationship of trauma memory and narrative by looking at the south african situation through the lens of trauma they make clear how the psychic deformations and injuries left behind by racism and colonialism cannot be mended by material reparation or by simply reversing economic and political power structures western trauma theories as developed by scholars such as caruth van der kolk herman and others are insufficient for analysing the more complex situation in a postcolony such as south africa this is because western trauma concepts focus on the individual traumatized by a single identifiable event that causes ptsd post traumatic stress disorder what we need is an understanding of trauma that sees it not only as a result of an identifiable event but also as the consequence of an historical condition in the case of south africa that of colonialism and more specifically of apartheid for most black and coloured south africans the structural violence of apartheid s laws were the existential condition under which they had to exist the living conditions in the townships pass laws relocation and racial segregation affected great parts of the south african population and were responsible for the collective traumatization of several generations this trauma however is not an unclaimed and unclaimable experience postcolonial thinkers who have been reflecting on the experience of violence and trauma in a colonial context writing from within a fanonian tradition have on the contrary believed in the importance of reclaiming the past and of transcending mechanisms of victimization and resentment so typical of traumatized consciousnesses narration and the novel have a decisive role to play here modern ideas of freedom and human rights have been repeatedly contested and are hotly debated at the beginning of the third millennium in response to new theories needs and challenges in contemporary life this volume offers culturally diverse contributions to the debate on freedom from the literatures and arts of the postcolonial world exploring experiences that evoke desire imagine and perform freedom across five continents and two centuries of history experiences of freedom opens with an introductory philosophical essay by achille mbembe and is divided into four sections that consider resisting history and colonialism the right to move and to belong the right to believe in free futures imaginative freedom and critical engagement each section contains a piece of creative writing directly connected to these topics from authors chris abani anita desai caryl phillips and alexis wright followed by a selection of critical essays contributors chris abani rochelle almeida gil anidjar jogamaya bayer elena bernardini anne collett carmen concilio paola della valle roberto derobertis anita desai lorna down francesca giommi gareth griffiths dave gunning john c hawley peter h marsden russell mcdougall achille mbembe cinzia mozzato kevin newmark berndt ostendorf mai palmberg owen percy kirsten holst petersen caryl phillips annel pieterse christiane schlote nermeen shaikh patrick williams alexis wright and robert j c young this book investigates how the intersection between gendered violence and human rights is depicted and engaged with in africana literature and films the rich and multifarious range of film and literature emanating from africa and the diaspora provides a fascinating lens through which we can understand the complex consequences of gendered violence on the lives of women children and minorities contributors to this volume examine the many ways in which gendered violence mirrors expresses projects and articulates the larger phenomenon of human rights violations in africa and the african diaspora and how in turn the discourse of human rights informs the ways in which we articulate interrogate conceptualise and interpret gendered violence in literature and film the book also shines a light on the linguistic contradictions and ambiguities in the articulation of gendered violence in private spaces and war this book will be essential reading for scholars critics feminists teachers and students seeking solid grounding in exploring gendered violence and human rights in theory and practice to date no text exists that focuses exclusively on the concept of postcolonial film as a framework for identifying films produced within and outside of various formerly colonized nations nor is there a scholarly text that addresses pedagogical issues about and frameworks for teaching such films this book borrows from and respects various forms of categorization intercultural global third and accented while simultaneously seeking to make manifest an alternate space of signification what feels like a mainstream approach is pedagogically necessary in terms of access both financial and physical to the films discussed herein given that this text proposes models for teaching these works at the university and secondary levels the focus of this work is therefore twofold to provide the methodology to read and teach postcolonial film and also to provide analyses in which scholars and teachers can explore the ways that the films examined herein work to further and complicate our understanding of postcolonial as a fraught and evolving theoretical stance
